SOCIAL SERVICE

The Prince, who was warmly received, said: --I am very pleased to have been able to come to this meeting this afternoon and to have heard the encouraging report that we have just listened to. The Oxfordshire County Council and the Rural Community Council are certainly to be congratulated on their joint efforts in this direction. Close contact, I know, has always existed between them, but it is always encouraging to hear of an official and a voluntary body working in such close cooperation and harmony.

The contains was designed to accommodate a staff of 544 persons, with an average floor area of approximately 100ft. super a head. The number now accommodated was 716, and the area per person worked out at 83ft. super.

A special sub-committee was considering the provision of the essential-accommodation when Circular 1222 from the Ministry of Health on the necessity for economy caused the matter to be postponed. Further accommodation was now argently required, and in the view of the committee the extension of the building should no longer be delayed. Mr. H. Austen Hall, F.R.I.B.A., who was responsible for designing the building, was appointed architect, and Mr. Hugh Watkins surveyor.

Reporting on the collection of the water rate or the half-year ended March last, the Finance Committee stated that the total charge, includng arrears, was £2,557,178. The collection was 2,469,444. Allowances made in respect of empty properties totalled £75.511, and the amount written off as irrecoverable was £2,181, leaving £10,042 arrears. Domestic and non-Iomestic fixed charges amounted to £1,845,360. The cash collected was £1,760,949, or 95.43 per cent. The allowances were 4.08 per cent., leaving arrears of £9,143, or 0.49 per cent. Of the charges by meter 99.52 per cent. was collected; illowances were 0.35 per cent., leaving arrears of only 0.13 per cent. The results were regarded is gratifying.
