25th ANNIVERSARY PICTORIAL EDITION

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

25 YEAR OVERVIEW

It all started on the evening of Tuesday 9 June 1987. About 180 guests had booked to hear a talk by Babette Alfieri, attracted by The Sunday Times caption—“Poachers’ mass slaughter fires charge to save rhino”. Twelve decided to take action and arranged to meet the following evening at Warwick Rowell’s townhouse and thus, Save African Endangered Wildlife Foundation was formed. And now, 25 years later, we are one of the leading supporters of rhino conservation in Zimbabwe, and provided $485,000 of equipment and project expenses in our last financial year, April 2011/March 2012. In 1995 we changed our name to SAVE FOUNDATION of Australia and this year we are changing to Save African Rhino Foundation, to more aptly describe our mission.

We were originally called to action by the fact that between 1972 and 1987, 96% of Africa’s black rhinos were slaughtered for their horn, from 65,000 down to 3,500. In 1987, Zimbabwe had around 2,000, South Africa, Kenya and Namibia each had 450 and Tanzania was home to the remaining 150. Now, 25 years on, it’s Namibia and South Africa up near 1,900 each, Kenya at 550, Zimbabwe with 400 and Tanzania down to less than 100.

In the same timeframe, the southern white rhino, native to South Africa, has grown from 4,000 to around 18,000, showing that dramatic resurgences can occur with the right management strategies. These rhinos are under heavy siege, 448 killed last year and over 225 so far this year!

As a matter of interest, the other three rhino species, Indian, Sumatran and Javan, have approximately 2,500, 180 and 40 respectively.

Our first patron was Lord Alistair McAlpine, and his Perth home, Bishop’s House, was the lovely venue for our first fundraiser. Since then we have raised more than $4,200,000, the vast majority being used to preserve Zimbabwe’s rhinos, many of whom would by now have been poached had it not been for our intervention with vital anti-poaching resources.

Celebrated former England captain and dashing batsman, David Gower, became our second patron in 1992, followed by world class golfer, Nick Price, formerly from Zimbabwe, in 1993, and Australia’s best selling author, Bryce Courtenay, in 1994. We are thrilled and honoured to have such a distinguished quartet of patrons, and thank you, gentlemen, for adding your names and reputations to our foundation to enhance our credibility.

Throughout the years our main forms of fundraising have been our nearly annual dinner/auctions, our safaris and our memberships/donations. More than 5,200 guests have attended our 15 dinners, mainly at the Perth Hyatt Regency, resulting in more than $1,100,000 being raised, mostly through the sale of unique cricket memorabilia.

We have hosted over 320 passengers on our safaris to Zimbabwe, Botswana and South Africa, and our main destinations have been Imire, Hwange, Victoria Falls, Chobe and the Okavango Delta, with less frequent visits to Lake Kariba, Cape Town and Etosha. Without doubt, these are amazing trips and tremendous value—two seats still remain for our 1 September departure.

Our membership numbers remain steady in the low 200s and we invite you all to please enrol another member—thanks. Our thanks also go to so many of you who regularly make a donation with your membership renewal or appeals, with particular mention of Karin Keighley, Bev Poor, Peter Hall and Mike Palmer. Amongst our most supportive corporate sponsors have been Hunter Hall, REM Systems, Abaxis, Siomar Batteries, Mrs Mac’s Pty Ltd and Picasso Print. Very generous accountancy and auditing services have been kindly provided by Judge Constable and Moore Stephens.

ZIMBABWE UPDATE 2012

For 25 years we have been faithful and dedicated rhino supporters in the National Parks of Zimbabwe. Since the early nineties there has been a build up of rhinos on private lands too, mainly wildlife conservancies. Massive poaching occurred in the Zambezi valley between 1986 and 2003, resulting in the formation of four Intensive Protection Zones in the parks and seven rhino conservancies on ranch land. Numbers steadily increased for eight years and then land invasions on some of the private land led to increased wildlife poaching. Various management strategies by the WWF / Southern Africa Regional Programme Office in Harare, headed by Raoul du Toit, resulted in translocations and consolidations for these rhinos, conducted by Chief Government Wildlife Vet, Chris Foggin. The overall result is that a founder population of 136 black rhinos around the country on private land has now risen to over 350. Sadly, the numbers in the parks have shown the opposite trend, falling from 110 to a mere 45 today.

For our first 20 years, we have dedicated 75% of our assistance to National Parks and 25% to the conservancies, and for the past five years it has been 65/35. As we mark our 25th anniversary we are being forced to face the reality of the situation and to tweak our ratios by giving greater amounts to the private landowners. Of course, we will still be supporting National Parks and look forward to the opportunity of becoming more involved in their two strongholds, an existing one in the south of the country and a new one that will open up next year in the south-east.

A project that your committee decided to support to a fuller extent, after their visit there in February, is one of the conservancies in the south-east with a healthy rhino population, but with 17 mortalities last year and 13 so far this year. We will be part funders ($50,000) of a new anti-poaching team under the training and coordination of Bryce Clemence, one of our trainers in the parks for the past year. His father, Pete, will continue to help National Parks, where viable. We see this as a very positive move for rhino protection in Zimbabwe.

At the recent Rhino Management meeting in Harare, attended by Steve Harrison and myself, we agreed to donate $50,000 to rhino operations in three key areas, mainly where white rhinos are found. These funds will be coordinated by two local organisations, Dambari Wildlife Trust and AWARE Trust, both of whom we've worked with on many occasions.

We would like to thank the many dedicated people of Zimbabwe who are constantly involved in rhino management and protection, particularly those who have spent a good number of years in this field, and those with whom we have had a close association. There are many National Parks' rangers who try very hard in difficult circumstances with limited resources at their disposal, especially those at the rhino coalface—often with little encouragement to succeed. Thanks to you all.

Amongst the management and veterinary projects that we've worked closely with for a number of years, we offer special thanks to Natasha Anderson, Verity Bowman, Chris Foggin, Lovemore Mungwashu, Dave Strydom, Raoul du Toit, Norman English, Sylvester Ncube, Jackson Kamwi, Mike Ball, Clive Stockil, Israel Ngarira, Stephen Long and Lisa Hywood.

KIM HUGHES DINNER/
AUCTION – $120,000

March 13, Grand Ballroom, Perth Hyatt Regency, was the setting for another sell out dinner for the rhinos, drawn together by the opportunity to meet and listen to former Australian test captain, Kim Hughes. And what a fantastic night it was! Kim gave a great presentation with a strong message of being the best you can be. We invited Tim Gossage from Channel Ten and 6PR to be our MC and celebrity auctioneer, and what a good move that was! Tim was absolutely outstanding and helped us net a profit of $120,000 for the evening.

And now to thank all the other people who played vital roles in making this such a successful evening. To all our item donors—boat owner Dave Bovell, artists, Craig Hilton Barber, Chris Wiles and Callum Fairnie, jeweller Doris Brinkhaus, and autograph collectors Anne Chester and Reggie Fernandes, thank you all so much. To our most generous purchasers—including Syd, Domenic, Doris, Jason, Danny, Ken, Reggie, Clive, Dennis, Simon, Gary, Mal and Nina—thanks for your wonderful support. And to all our helpers—Jennifer, Nia, Evelyn, Maree, Kim, Zia, Lorraine, Millie, Jennifer, Julie, Fadzai, Candice, Kate, Lisa, Geoff, John, Elliot, Adam, Tony and Wayne—we couldn't have managed without you, the heart and soul of any organisation.

The two biggest money makers on the night were the lovely 'safari-for-two' packages to the very best places in Zimbabwe and Botswana. Our enormous thanks goes to The Hide, The Victoria Falls Hotel, Xakanaxa Camp, Save Valley Conservancy, Malilangwe Trust (Singita Pamushana Lodge), Amalinda Camp, Ivory Lodge and Victoria Falls Safari Lodge. These two trips raised $18,600 so thank you very much to the lodges and hotels who donated their properties for these safaris.

Poachers' mass slaughter fires charge to save rhino

FOUR years ago an estimated 60,000 rhino roamed Africa — now there are 4000.

The slaughter of these magnificent beasts by poachers for their horn and the males' penis has been a major problem in central and southern Africa.

Since 1980, Babette Alfieri has raised $US350,000 to combat the increasing threat of poachers in this region.

She and a friend have bought anti-poaching equipment, including two light aircraft for aerial reconnaissance, and a Mercedes truck for transporting animals to protected areas.

Babette is concerned with saving the rhino from extinction. She is working with the Zimbabwe authorities to conserve 750 black rhino. Find out about "Vanishing Africa" at a talk Babette is giving in Perth on Tuesday night.

Gordon Tours Australia, which specialises in safari holidays to Africa, is organising the evening. It's at 6pm, at the Wesley Auditorium in William St.

Admission is free, but phone 322 5674 to book seats.

One of our Land Cruisers going off to patrol.

TRAGIC DEATH OF ANDY SEARLE

It is with great sadness that we report the untimely death of Andy Searle in a helicopter crash on 6 March. He was returning from rhino tracking and mysteriously nose-dived into the ground. Andy was a great all-rounder with National Parks and had served them with distinction for more than 20 years. His last position was as Warden of the game capture unit at Umtschi, Hwange National Park. He leaves a widow, Lol, and a four-year old son, Drew.

2001

With the downturn in the Zimbabwe economy, and unreliable fuel supplies, it was necessary to turn to “bike power” for patrolling. Above, Paul de Montille, DART, examines a pile of snares, the result of increased meat poaching right around the country. 90% of Zimbabwe’s wildlife on the game farms was about to be lost in the next 5 years.

2002

The stars included

Rhino numbers in Zimbabwe doubled between 1993 and 2002, and then, BANG, poaching started in January 2003 in Sinamatella. The rhino skull (right) evaded her captors before dying with 4 kgs of horn, perhaps $80,000 worth in the Far East! Since then, Sinamatella has lost more than 40 rhinos and around Zimbabwe, there have been at least 100 poached in the last 4 years.

Matthew Hayden, here with some admirers, was our special guest at a dinner/auction the night before he scored a world record 380 against Zimbabwe.

Fumbai, a 4-year old female, was the first of 30 rhinos out of a total population of 50 to be killed in the Midlands Conservancy!

Nicholas vehemently opposes the introduction of black rhino hunting in Namibia and South Africa at CITES, Bangkok. Hunting was approved by an overwhelming majority.

With increased rhino poaching, de-horning again became necessary and Chris Foggin (subsequently to be the first non-South African to be awarded the prestigious 'Wildlife Vet of the Year'), moved around Zimbabwe from project to project. He also fitted radio transmitters to some of the front horns (right).

2005

Other projects supported included Sharon Pincott's elephant studies, Painted Dog Project and the Hwange Lion Project.

Another of our Patrons, Bryce Courtenay, inspired and entertained a sell-out audience at the Hyatt, and a fine time was had by all.

2006

Our safaris continue to be extremely popular and great value, and a good source of funds for the Foundation.

In December, 620 guests were entertained by David Gower at our Annual Dinner/Auction. David was hosted by Peter Gangemi of Westwide Financial Services (left), whilst our array of sporting memorabilia was widely admired. A record amount of $150,000 was raised in the evening. Thanks, David, for being a true friend and champion of the SAVE FOUNDATION cause since 1991.

2007

14 rhino monitors are employed by us in Sinamatella.

Behind-the-scenes trips are becoming increasingly popular.
