Since 2010 the Bowling for Rhinos Conservation Resource Fund has been made available on an annual basis to projects dedicated to rhino conservation. In the past four years, this fund has contributed $9,304.92 to conservation of both Asian and African rhino species. In 2013, $3426.22 was granted to RhiNOremedy to fund an educational outreach program to curb the demand for rhino horn in China. This segment of the panel discussion will provide a brief overview of the fund, including operational procedures and summaries of the projects supported.
