

Jaipur that was: Royal Court and the Seraglio

Nandakishora Pārīka

Subodh Sahitya Sadan, 2000 - Jaipur (Princely State) - 327 pages

★★★★★

0 Reviews

From inside the book

dhama "Gainda ki Deorhi"

Search

1 page matching dhama "Gainda ki Deorhi" in this book

Page 40

To the south of this court, just opposite the Tripolia, the lofty gateway is known as 'Purabia-Ki-Deorhi'. To the east, a similar gateway is called 'Gainda-Ki-Deorhi'. B. L. Dhama believed that once upon a time, a rhinoceros was kept at this gate, but Thakur Harnath Singh considers it a misconception. According to him 'Gainda' is a corruption of the word 'Lafgandar' which means household servants. This seems to be logical for

Where's the rest of this book?

Results 1-1 of 1