
This is a reproduction of a library book that was digitized by Google as part of an ongoing effort to preserve the information in books and make it universally accessible.

Google[™] books

<https://books.google.com>

3

DEDICATED BY PERMISSION, AND UNDER THE IMMEDIATE PATRONAGE OF

HIS MAJESTY,

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, His Royal Highness the Duke of York, the Hon. the Court of Directors of the East India Company, &c. &c.

PROSPECTUS

OF THE

INDIAN SPORTSMAN;

BEING A COMPLETE, DETAILED, AND ACCURATE
DESCRIPTION

OF THE

WILD SPORTS OF THE EAST

AND EXHIBITING

IN A NOVEL AND INTERESTING MANNER,
THE NATURAL HISTORY

Of the Elephant, the Rhinoceros, the Tiger, the Leopard, the Bear, the Deer, the Buffalo, the Wolf, the Wild Hog, the Jackal, the Wild Dog, the Civet, and other undomesticated Animals:

As likewise the different species of Feathered Game, Fishes, and Serpents. The whole interspersed with a variety of Anecdotes, which render the Work replete with Information and Amusement.

The Scenery gives a faithful representation of that Picturesque Country, together with the Manners and Customs of the Native and European Inhabitants.

The Narrative is divided into Forty Heads, forming collectively a complete Work, but so arranged that each part is a detail of one of the

FORTY COLOURED ENGRAVINGS,

with which the Publication is embellished. The whole taken from the Manuscript and Designs of

CAPTAIN THOMAS WILLIAMSON,

who served upwards of twenty Years in Bengal:

THE DRAWINGS BY SAMUEL HOWETT, made uniform in size, and engraved by the first Artists, under the direction of EDWARD ORME. The Letter-Press by WILLIAM BULMER and Co. from a superior Type cast purposely for this Work.

CONDITIONS.

THE Work is to be published in Numbers, containing Two Coloured Engravings, and several Sheets of Letter Press, price ONE GUINEA each Number.

The whole to be executed on a superior Royal Folio Vellum Paper, made for this Publication; and to be uniform in size with the splendid embellished HISTORY of INDIA, just published by EDWARD ORME.

Twenty Numbers will complete the Work.

The Title-Page and Preface, with a general Index and the Plates, will be given with the last Number.

Fifteen Numbers are now ready to deliver to Subscribers, and One Number will be published every Month, until Christmas 1806, when the whole will be finished.

This Work having been upwards of Twenty Years in agitation, the Editor presumes he may now with confidence engage to perform the above conditions.

Those Noblemen and Gentlemen who intended to honour this splendid Work with their patronage, are requested to be early in sending their Names to the Editor and Publisher, Edward Orme, 59, New Bond Street, as it is his intention to give up to the first Subscribers THE PROOF IMPRESSIONS, without any advance of Price.

PLATE I.

Going out in the Morning.

MANNER in which Europeans proceed to the field; method of their conveyance; description of their cuts, and other apparatus, with the manner in which such structures are fitted up.—Necessity of Europeans being attended in their excursions by Sepoys.—Some account of the cooking utensils used for a hunting party.—Manner in which the natives eat their food.—Hints as to the manner of procuring provisions.—Method of cooking in the open air.—Advantage of certain shady plantations throughout Bengal.—Account of the Jack-ree, or kuttal.—Of the Mango-tree, and its marriage with a well.—Hints relative to the management of horses intended for hunting.—Method of mounting elephants.—Viciousness of the horses in India.

PLATE II.

Beating Sugar-Canes for a Hog.

PROPER time for the Sportsman to commence his operations.—Pace and powers of the Wild Hog far beyond those of tame swine.—Speed of the Jungle Hog equal to that of a horse.—Account of a hunt.—Situations in which the Wild Hog delights.—Time and method of beating Sugar-Canes.—Account of the red cane, or burrak.—Difficulty and manner of expelling Hogs from Sugar-Canes.—Sagacity of some Hogs when chased, and their ferocity when attacked.—Account of the plough used in India.—Description of the Banian-tree, or Burg-ye.—Of the wells used for irrigation, and danger of them to hunters.—Account of the native Dogs.—Of the porcupine.—Reasons why horses will not approach this animal.

PLATE III.

The Chace after a Hog.

ADVICE to inexperienced hunters; directions for spearing hogs, &c.—Accidents liable to the party in grass jungles.—Of the places which contain most game.—How to search the grass for a Hog, or Hog-deer.—Sagacity of the Pariah, or village Dog.—How to bring a Hog to bay before he is exhausted with running.—Use of the jungle grass in India.—Attacks of the Hog upon reapers.—Description of the spears used in Hog-hunting.—Indian Greyhounds described.—Farther remarks on hunting-dogs.

PLATE IV.

Hunters coming by Surprise on a Tigress and her Cubs.

TIGERS often discovered by accident.—Anecdote relative to the effect produced on a horse by the sight of a Tiger.—Extraordinary instance of courage on the part of a charger.—Sagacity of the Tiger.—Account of the accident which forms the subject of the Plate.—Of the number of Cubs borne by a Tigress.—Discovery of a litter of Cubs made by the Author.—Refutation of the idea, that a Tiger will not approach fire.—Adventure of Colonel Harpur, by which he saved the life of the Nabob of Oude.—On the early prey of young Tigers.—Reflections on the imbecility of the native governments.

PLATE V.

The Hog at Bay.

MANNER in which Boars sometimes kill horses.—Mr. Day's horse, Sultan, severely ripped.—Some gentlemen hunt on horses not much larger than the game they kill.—Manner in which Hogs usually charge.

Anecdotes.—Many horses will not approach Wild Hogs, out on the right flank.—Sometimes needful to attack the moment a Hog quits cover.—Sulky Hogs difficult to hunt.—Hogs, when in sight of cover, push forward desperately.—Horses rise and spring over Hogs that charge.

PLATE VI.

The Dead Hog.

EARLY starting, but return uncertain.—Ordinary length of chases.—Many Hogs often killed in succession.—Horses dislike dead Hogs, and distinguish between the wild and tame very quickly.—Instance of one hunting admirably without his rider, and biting at the game.—The rhur spikes dangerous.—General sizes of wild Hogs; various breeds; characteristic marks, &c.—Panegyrics of servants on their masters' exploits.—Parties often divide.—Hogs deviate from their course to attack peasants.

PLATE VII.

The Return from Hunting.

NUMBERS of kites swarm near kitchens; highly useful in removing offal; very quick and bold.—Large birds on the wing during the heat of the day; soar high into a cooler air.—Exquisite sense of the Vulture.—Crows very impudent.—Strong stomach of the Argeelah, or Adjutant-bird.—Scorpions abound; centipedes numerous; severe bites; ludicrous anecdotes; scorpions sting themselves when surrounded by fire; immense quantities of insects during the rains; frogs, toads, lizards, and snakes, creep about houses; mosquitoes troublesome, especially to new-comers.—Wild Ox described.—Niel Gow.—Elephant at his pickets.—Food of elephants.—Burghut said to create blindness.—Various sorts of tents.—Guzzee Gunge.—Horses covered with cloths.—Breakfast, how prepared; excellent living; evening sports.—Mango topes; lackpeery; mango fruit, flavour, &c.—Servants' tents, or huts.

PLATE VIII.

Driving Wild Elephants into a Keddah.

VARIOUS modes of catching elephants.—The Keddah described.—Wild herds surrounded; baits to induce them.—Elephants often remain sulky, and destroy many mohouts, or drivers.—Elephants, how secured, and rendered familiar.—Access of mohouts.—Prices of Elephants in general.—Gait of Elephants riding with saddles and stirrups, also with pads.—Elephants useful in driving game into nets.—The taumjaung, or chair palankeen, described; also the watannah, bockah, and naulkeen, rates of travelling.

PLATE IX.

Koomkies, or Decoy Elephants, catching a Male.

FEMALES selected for size and docility; males separated from herds, by one of superior prowess, become furious; two or more Koomkies sent out to catch such; raise the passions of the male; conceal their mohouts, artfully.—Elephants much attached to good mohouts.—Koomkies occasionally assist, coax, and fondle the male, while the mohouts are tying his legs.—Mohouts deal in the marvellous; wonderful story of a Koomkie catching a male by herself.—Elephants soon learn to tie their own legs; ludicrous occurrence.—Elephants subject to worms; eat earth, when ill with them, as a purge.

PLATE X.

Kiomkies, or Decoy Elephants, leaving the Male fastened to a Tree.

PERIOD of the Elephant's gestation—Mr. John Corse's breed of Elephants.—General stature of Elephants.—Device at Exeter Change, &c.—Elephants answer to names; anecdote.—Elephants caught in pits generally lamed; great sagacity when in danger; desperate sport requires large Elephants; Major Lally's mode of going in his tub; anecdote.—Elephants brought from Napaul not of a good kind; Coromandel Coast does not produce Elephants, yet they abound in Ceylon, and are there very large; always larger and better near the sea-coasts than inland; highly serviceable to the military; their common food, and quantities.

PLATE XI.

A Rhinoceros bayed by Elephants.

THE Rhinoceros but little known; characteristics; Major Lally spectator of a battle.—Rhinoceros mostly found on the north side of the Ganges.—Jinjals, or large matchlock guns, with chambers, used to shoot the Rhinoceros; parts where shot are fatal; anecdote of a Rhinoceros attacking a shooting party; killed by a shocarry.—Peculiar custom of the Rhinoceros.

PLATE XII.

The Tiger prowling through a Village at Night.

TIGERS, from cowardice, delight in concealment; very similar to cats; tiger-traps described; leopards attracted by the smell of meat; anecdote. Tigers, in cages, fed on Pariah dogs; curious anecdote of resistance and subsequent attachment; villages surrounded by jungles, reasons why, infested by Tigers.—Description of suggars, or hill carts.—Gourds, mellons, &c. on thatches.—Cattle at night in enclosures and pounds; pariah dogs give alarm.

PLATE XIII.

A Tiger seizing a Bullock in a Pass.

TIGERS carry off men with ease; instances; lurk near roads and fords; manner of seizing their prey; Paul's remark regarding such as were accustomed to human flesh; seldom or never return to attack, if they miss their spring.—Some are said to have caught Tigers on their arm, and stabbed them under the belly.—Sharks stabbed by divers.—Mode of concealment under a basket, and spearing Tigers; Peacocks, spotted deer, and Tigers, frequent the same covers.—Tigers sometimes caught with bird-lime.—The bamboo highly useful.

PLATE XIV.

Shooting a Tiger from a Platform.

NOTICE given to shecarries, or native sportsmen, when cattle are seized; donation for every Tiger killed.—Tiger, when glutted, goes to sleep; returns to his prey shecarry how armed; benedictions; jackals dispersed by the Tiger's return.—Tiger shot; if only wounded how followed by the shecarry.—Tigers climb; coolness and good aim requisite; anecdote of a man and his dog; villagers on hearing the gun, approach; rejoicings; the Tiger slung and carried; the shecarry, a stout man; well treated.—Four Tigers shot by Paul in one morning.

PLATE XV.

Driving a Tiger out of a Jungle.

MODE of guiding elephants; elephants obey words of command; mohouts generally dissipated characters; the office of mohout unhealthy.—Longevity not characteristic of India; early marriages.—Princes and persons of distinction are generally preceded by an elephant, swinging a large bell on each side.—Nagarahs described, their use; priestcraft.—Gentlemen assemble to hunt Tigers; Tigers often sleepy and sullen; generally first discovered by elephants; strong scent; large elephants preferable; Tigers tear and claw; hunting in bands, manner and arrangement; wounds from Tigers highly dangerous; Tygers often escape with many wounds; Paul sure of his aim.

PLATE XVI.

Chacing a Tiger across a River.

ELEPHANTS fond of the water; sleep on their sides; drink by means of their trunks; shake dirt from roots of grass, &c.; very resentful; instances of moderation.—Tigers swim voluntarily; feel for the tide; molungies, or salt-makers, take to caves when they see Tigers on an opposite shore; anecdote.—Dingies, or small boats, described; women in India swim well; floating down great rivers on pots, strawricks, &c.—Some elephants will not swim; how forced into boats; elephant's eye said to magnify.—Boats tracked by men; anecdotes relating to the famous jungle at Pattallee.—How Tigers are attacked in the water.—General description of budgerows, pinnaces, dandies, or watermen, &c.

PLATE XVII.

The Tiger at Bay.

FACE of the country; danger of going at speed; elephants become very unruly; a fine Mooknah elephant's trunk cut nearly through; fed afterwards chiefly by a female elephant; wound quite healed.—Antipathy of elephants to be followed by horses, dogs, &c.—Tigers' mode of attack; dogs often killed by them; large Tiger started by a pack of dogs from a rhur field; how killed.—Rivers in general; jeels, or lakes.—Elephants often take fright; instance of gentlemen in imminent danger.

PLATE XVIII.

The Tiger springing on an Elephant.

ELEPHANTS' faces painted; ears filled with small rings; pull and break each other's tails; very unsightly, and depreciating the animal greatly; throw up their tails when exerting themselves; construction of pads and guddaylahs; lay down to be loaded by word of command; use of the haunkus and spears; stipulated burthen; forced marches; diseases; remedies.—How elephants and camels rise; elephants trumpet and roar when they smell a Tiger; the Plate attached to this number drawn from an incident which occurred near Daudpore; instance of a Tiger getting on a pad.

PLATE XIX.

The Dead Tiger.

CONSTRUCTION of a howdah like a phaeton body; curious appearance of them.—Elephants rarely use their trunks as weapons; throw stones and clods with great force and precision; lay down to crush or hustle with their legs; attack with their teeth; anecdote of Captain Rutton.—Elephants newly caught most courageous; sensible of their own weight; difficult to get over temporary bridges; feel with their trunks; afraid of fire, &c.

PLATE XX.

Shooters coming by Surprise on a Tiger.

ELEPHANTS requisite in heavy grass or underwood covers; some practice useful to shoot from an elephant's back; best sort of howdahs for shooting; places where spotted deer and peacocks abound, dangerous; alarms; spaniels will sometimes attack Tigers; firing at the Tiger very imprudent; anecdote of Lieut. Underwood, near Col'gong; Dr. Stark's dog taken by a leopard at Dacca; a Tiger put up at Bowal, close to the Bangalore; abound in that country; Tigers retire from the report of guns, &c.; ancient description of howdahs, or castles on elephants; elephants useless in engagements.

PLATE XXI.

A Tiger hunted by wild Dogs.

THE Wild Dog very little known in India, even by very old inhabitants, often doubted, but fully ascertained; the Dhole, or Wild Dog, described; characteristics.—Tiger not calculated to hold out before them long; leopards escape into trees; spaniels will attack Tigers, and with good effect; Colonel Bateman's dogs keen after them; a single dog attacking a full grown leopard; Dholes aid not to hunt bears.

PLATE XXII.

A Tiger killed by a poisoned Arrow.

PREMIUMS and value of claws, skins, &c.; natives predestinarians, yet very much in fear of Tigers; Tigers might be destroyed in the inner countries, but impossible to be annihilated on the frontiers; Tigers often trot parallel to their object for a long way; select one from many persons; remarkable instance; Tigers have many regular stations; generally go by the same routes; manner in which she carries lay their bows; bow and apparatus described; poisons for arrows.—Pahariahs, or Hill People, a distinct race; very like the Welch; expert at the bow; Tigers fond of basking in the sun; Ranighar arrows very large; people there know little of poisons; arrow, pikes, and shafts, how and of what made; proper position for drawing them to advantage.

PLATE XXIII.

Shooting a Leopard in a Tree.

LEOPARDS fond of getting into trees; Plassey Tope, formerly very dangerous; Paul cleared it of many beasts; Plassey-house described; a Leopard in the veraudah, or balcony, shot dead by Paul; anecdote of a contest between a Leopard and an Officer of Artillery; great difference of temper in wild animals, when fed with boiled meats.

PLATE XXIV.

A Battle between a Buffalo and a Tiger.

WILD appearance of the Buffalo; even the tame breed very uncouth in appearance; not fearful of tigers; safety of herdsmen; common practice of bringing the Buffalo and Tiger into the same area to fight; the area, how constructed; Tigers generally crouch, or endeavour to climb; kept down by poles; Buffalo highly pampered; enters very courageously.

PLATE XXV.

The Buffalo at Bay.

BUFFALO cows, having calves, very fierce; also the single males; Dr. Knight's narrow escape; anecdotes; a Buffalo shot by Dr. Baillie; Buffaloes delight in water; often alarm travellers.—Ghee, how made; useful in culinary purposes; great heads much respected among the natives; great pride in corpulency.—The Buffalo very strong, but slow; unfit to carry various burthens; sometimes used in the plough; swims over large rivers; Buffalo beef very bad.

PLATE XXVI.

Peacock Shooting.

AMAZING quantities of peacocks about the passes in the Jungleterry; woods, in the morning, covered with their beautiful plumage; make excellent soup and cutlets; young chicks make good roasters; peculiarly fond of mustard fields; acquire a fine flavor; only the common grey, or blue-necked peacock, known in India; none seen within a great distance of Calcutta; easy to shoot by moonlight, by getting under their roosts: plenty of wild fowl in the winter season; immense flights; the scety, or whistling duck, as also the widgeon, and often the partridge, roost in trees.—Hawks described; hawk-ing.—Numbers of monkeys; large topes abounding with them; fed by grants of land, &c.; of flamingos, curlews, plovers; power of the sun; anecdote of putting out of pain; pelican skin on crowns of hats; catching ducks with pots: braminy geese very wary; flights of various fowl; wounded water-fowl invariably separate from the flock; pheasants; guanas; flying foxes and bats; beautiful owls; excellent shots in India; various modes to kill game; the cotton-tree described.

PLATE XXVII.

Shooting at the Edge of a Jungle.

Fire pointers in India; abundance of game; crossbred dogs excellent for jungles; dooreahs with greyhounds; hares very swift in the upper provinces; less so in Bengal and Bahar; pleasant coursing of foxes; useful sizes of shot for India; varieties of partridges; various kinds of quail; the woodcock extremely scarce; snipes; painted snipes; the floriken, or bustard of India; characteristic marks.—No wild rabbits in India.—Immense flights of ortolans.—Green pigeons; difficult to distinguish in the tree.

PLATE XXVIII.

Driving a Bear out of Sugar-Canes.

SOME persons doubt whether bears exist in India; very numerous in some parts, and extremely mischievous; horses very averse to approaching them; the white ant, or termite, described.—Extensive irrigation throughout India; modes of drawing water.—Ploughs and harrows; described; places of worship; houses of the natives; residences of Europeans.

PLATE XXIX.

The Death of the Bear.

CHARACTERISTIC marks of the Indian bear; their thin coat of black hair; attack very wantonly; ludicrous anecdote; bears' dens.—Bears, monkeys, and goats exhibited together by jugglers throughout India; Bears frequent rocky countries.—Dress and undress of Sepoys.

PLATE XXX.

Hunting a Kuttauss or Civet.

OFFENSIVE and strong scent of the animal; kuttauss lurks in very thick bushy covers; its form and colour; its depredations usually ascribed to jackals, &c.; the scent occasions violent sickness in dogs that mouth the nttauss. — Pole-cats. — Poultry cheap; often scarce. —

The Banyan-tree described; tanks; alligators; ornaments found in their maws, &c.

PLATE XXXI.

Jackals rescuing a hunted Brother.

HOUNDS degenerate fast in India; require renovation from Europe; chaces generally short; jackal very cunning;
few hounds now kept in India; dogs kept tied up; jackals, if numerous, will attack dogs; instances; if hard pressed by at horses' legs; delight in carrion; steal poultry, pigs, pups, &c.; story of the vizier and the jackals; erroneous opinion that the jackal is the lion's provider—Account of the pheaul.—No lions in the peninsula of India; only one ever seen in Bengal.—Marvellous anecdote.—Foxes hunted; described.—Earths.—Construction of rhunts, ackerries, and other carriages.

PLATE XXXII.

Chace after a Wolf carrying off a Lamb.

GREAT anxiety occasioned at night by the incursions of wolves; remain in burrows during the day; instance of a chace; the wolf successful; wolves very cautious; their mode of seizing; children taken away from their mothers' breasts in spite of every practicable security;
wolves have been known to seize children in frequented places, even in open day; wolf-cubs never tamed; difference between the real wolf, i. e. the berriah, and the yæna, or hoondar; a remarkable circumstance of wolves endeavouring to convey a boy of thirteen years old over a wall nine feet high.—Anecdote.—Wolves rarely have more than two cubs; the real wolf very fleet; not to be seen in Bengal, but occasionally in Bahar; the Nabob's country well stocked with them.—General form of bridges in India.—Shepherds generally old and decrepit.

PLATE XXXIII.

The common Wolf-Trap.

OLD dry wells make excellent traps; mode of construction; the bait usually a kid; some hunted after being taken, proved very fleet; the German wolf-trap described.

PLATE XXXIV.

Smoking Wolves from their Earths.

MODE of stopping part of the holes; materials for smoking.—Distressing effects of famine in the upper provinces in 1803; its cause; liberality of Europeans; conduct of persons from all quarters; serious consequences; a Sepoy attacked by seven wolves; mistaken for deer; instance of wolves smoked at Quoilá; success.—Dead Hindoos burnt and thrown into rivers or smaller streams; their bedsteads sacred.—Uncomfortable travelling by water.—Chattahs, or umbrellas, described.—Punkahs, or large fans, described.—Bazar flags.—Native troops in the service of country powers.

PLATE XXXV.

The Ganges breaking its Banks.

SNAKES of various descriptions; their poison quick in effect; supposed antidotes; snake-catchers; their operations; all snakes will take to the water; the ichneumon kills snakes; snakes suck cows, goats, &c.; swallow eggs in instance; few snakes near iron mines; water snakes go into boats; all large birds eat them; the power of deglutition in snakes; the punctures made by a snake's bite frequently imperceptible; the cockatrice at present not known individually; but all snakes fascinate their prey. Very few accidents in shooting.—Anecdote.—Various

As described; Mr. Campbell killed by a skait.—Alligators; ornaments found in their maws; tame alligators at Lucknow; anecdote of dogs devoured in shooting; alligators kept in the ditches of forts in the Carnatic; instance of an extraordinary escape; alligators devour their own young as soon as hatched.—Poolbundies, or banks, prevent inundations of low countries; anecdote of a village saved.—Descriptions of various boats.—Fish caught during inundations; nets described.

PLATE XXXVI.

Killing Game at the Inundation of an Island.

THE rivers in India rise as in Egypt with periodical rains; wondrous force of the wind; remarkable north-easter in May 1795, attended with perfect darkness for several hours; extended over a large tract of country; usual period of the rains; rice, how sown; grows fast; long straw; dangerous riding among the long straw.—Villages built on knobs, or rising ground; slow flow of water.—Cattle kept in boats; how maintained.—Few horses kept.—Chains of islands in the great rivers; the wind binds the soil.—The sea formerly flowed near sixty miles more northerly, where the sunderbunds now stand.—Islands on which villages stand; great floods expel the game; peasants, fishermen, shecarries, &c. all join to track them; tigers active in the water; buffaloes not capable of much resistance while out of their depth.—Methods of bailing boats by means of scoops; and of raising water from rivers or jeels.

PLATE XXXVII.

Syces, or Grooms, leading out Horses.

INDIGENOUS horses; extremely vicious; few geldings; syces neither expert nor bold; tanyans very strong; tanyans carry amazing burthens.—Bengal not favourable for breeding horses ; cause and cure of the oursautty ; m sallahs, or drugs, given to horses ; climate of Bahar dri than Bengal ; great fairs there ; Company's stud ; vario casts of horses imported from other countries ; the Ar Persian, Majemies, and Cutch casts ; curious anecd of a gun ; leeches in horses' nostrils ; farriers ignora of diseases ; salootrahs, or horse-doctors ; horse-deale greater cheats than their brethren in Europe ; ancedot many syces professed thieves ; instance ; horses pa heavy tolls ; hay not used ; stables, how built ; jump or shutters ; frequent fires ; camel and elephant house bungalows.

PLATE XXXVIII.

Dooreahs, or Dog-keepers, leading out Dogs.

THE food of dogs simple ; plenty of water requisit
the hydrophobia ; remedy, and favourable symptom kennels described ; jewassah, or cuscuss tatties to co houses during the hot winds ; violence of rains ; hosp tality of India considerably decreased ; white houses c noxious to the eye.

PLATE XXXIX.

Running a Hog-Deer.

MANY greyhounds kept on account of abundance game ; degenerate greatly ; various kinds of deer ; fo of slipping greyhounds after antelopes ; roebucks Ranghur ; antelopes very shy ; shooting with plough-t locks ; stalking horses ; few Europeans in India ; ca not familiar with them ; contrast between the dresse Europeans and of the natives ; laborious sport ; hau of hog-deer ; how hunted ; fawns very fleet ; hog-d scarce ever found pregnant ; various breeds ; large ho of the bucks ; formerly numerous in the Jungletter trodden out by cattle; golahs; corn-markets, or gahes; bills of exchange; shroffs, or money-agents, &c.

PLATE XL.

The Hog-Deer at Bay.

A HOG-DEER caught by a springe, a rare circumstance; dogs very serviceable; anecdote of Mr. Day's huntsman; the characteristic marks of the hog-deer;
 the scah-goash and cheetah used in hunting, especially for deer; the Persian greyhound described, and various particulars incidental to the chase.

January 1, 1807.

THIS SPLENDID WORK

OF

ORIENTAL FIELD SPORTS,

IS

THIS DAY COMPLETED,

IN

TWENTY NUMBERS,

AT

Twenty-one Shillings Each.

November 1806.

BOOKS

Just Published

BY

EDWARD ORME,

BOND STREET, THE CORNER OF BROOK STREET.

THE 17th Number of the ORIENTAL FIELD SPORTS, price 1*l.* 1*s.* One Number to be delivered every Month, until Christmas 1806, when the Whole will be completed, which will consist of Twenty Numbers; and form perhaps the most splendid Work on Oriental Natural History, that has ever yet appeared.

A splendid embellished HISTORY of INDIA, from capital Pictures painted in India, by Mr. DANIEL, Col. WARD, and Lieut. JAMES HUNTER; in Two large Folio Volumes, Sixty-eight coloured Engravings. Price, in Boards, 10*l.* 10*s.* each Volume.

The COSTUME of HINDOSTAN; consisting of Sixty Plates of Figures, coloured; representing the Portraits of different Casts of the Hindoos, with descriptive Letter-Press, in English and French. Price 8*l.* 8*s.* in Boards. One Volume.

SERRES' LIBER NAUTICUS; or, complete Book of SHIPS and SHIPPING: calculated both for the Library and Instruction in the Art of Marine Drawing. Price 10s. 6d. each Number. Ten Numbers will complete the Work; the first Volume, and the second Number of the second Volume, are now finished.

An interesting large Quarto Work of ITALIAN SCENERY; representing the Manners, Customs, and Amusements of the different Italian States; containing Thirty-two Engravings. Price 4l. 4s.

The LIFE and WORKS of GEORGE MORLAND; by F. W. BLAGDON, Esq.; containing his Portrait and Twenty Engravings, which form Specimens of his different Style of Painting, Drawing, and Sketching, in one large folio Volume. Price 3l. 13s. 6d.

A PICTURESQUE TOUR through Spain, by SWINBURNE, large Folio Size, embellished with Twenty-two Plates, engraved by WATTS, MEDLAND, ANGUS, MITAN, &c. Price 3l. 13s. 6d.

A Set of PICTURESQUE SCENERY in the HOLY LAND and SYRIA; coloured to imitate Drawings, with descriptive Letter-Press; taken during the Campaigns of 1799 and 1800, by F. B. SPILSBURY, under the Command of Sir Sydney Smith, K. S. M. B. &c.

Folio, in Five Books, at 1/. 1s. each Book, or complete in Boards, 5/. 5s.

A New Edition of COLEBROOK'S TWELVE LARGE VIEWS in INDIA, coloured, to imitate Drawings, with a brief Detail of the Operations of the Army under the Marquis CORNWALLIS. Large Folio Size. Price 1/. 1s. each; or complete in Boards, 10/. 10s.

A GRAPHIC HISTORY of LOUIS the SIXTEENTH, and the ROYAL FAMILY of FRANCE, represented by Six large Engravings, from celebrated Pictures painted on the Spot, by D. PELEGRINI; with a brief History of the Sufferings of the Royal Family, collected from the most authentic Information. Large Imperial Folio, 3/. 3s.

ORME'S GRAPHIC HISTORY of the LIFE, EXPLOITS, and DEATH of LORD VISCOUNT NELSON; containing Fifteen Engravings: and intended as an Accompaniment to the three celebrated whole sheet Plates of his Lordship's splendid Victories, viz. the Battles off St. Vincent, the Nile, and Trafalgar, which are explained by References and Keys. Price, in Boards, 2*l.* 2*s.*

Shortly will be published an ESSAY on TRANSPARENT PRINTS, and on TRANSPARENCIES in general, by EDWARD ORME.

NEW DRAWING-BOOKS.

A Book of the RUDIMENTS of DRAWING LANDSCAPE, beginning with the first Outlines, and continued through the regular Process to the finished Landscape, a most useful Book for Learners; containing 22 Plates, by W. ORME, price 1*l.* 11*s.* 6*d.*; may be had in Numbers at 5*s.* each.

A Book of PRACTICAL PERSPECTIVE, by THOMAS NORLE, 12 Plates, some in Colours, Price, in Boards, 21*s.*

A PRACTICAL ESSAY on the ART of COLOURING and PAINTING in WATER COLOURS, by JOHN CLARK.

A Book of the RUDIMENTS of DRAWING the HUMAN FIGURE, by CIPRIANI and BARTOLOZZI

celebrated from having formed the Principles of all the first Artists of the present Day, price 1*l.* 1*s.*

A Book of the Rudiments of Drawing HEADS, by the same, price 1*l.* 1*s.*

A Book of LANDSCAPE EMBELLISHMENTS, by WILLIAM ORME, consisting of single Figures and Groupes of Figures useful to introduce into Landscape, price 10*s.* 6*d.*

A Book of ANIMALS, by HOWITT, price 10*s.* 6*d.*

A Book of WILD ANIMALS, by Ditto, 5*s.*

A Book of Four large HEADS for Chalk Drawings by METZ, price 1*l.* 1*s.*

A Ditto, ditto, by BOURLIER, 15*s.*

A Ditto, smaller, by DANIEL ORME, 5*s.*

MORLAND's SKETCHES, in Numbers, at 10*s.* 6*d.* each.

Ditto, smaller, 7*s.* 6*d.* 3*s.* 6*d.* and 2*s.* 6*d.*

Books on SHIPS and SHIPPING, at 10*s.* 6*d.* 5*s.* and 3*s.* 6*d.*

A Book of Four Horses, by GESSENER, 3*s.* 6*d.*

A Ditto of Six Ditto, 3*s.* 6*d.*

A Book of DOGS, 2*s.* 6*d.*

A Ditto of WILD ANIMALS, 2s. 6d.

Besides numerous SMALL DRAWING-BOOKS of FIGURES and LANDSCAPES, at 3s. 6d. 2s. 6d. and
s. 6d.

Sold also by EDWARD ORME,

All British Engravings, large and small, coloured and plain, Wholesale, Retail, and for Exportation.

A CATALOGUE of his Publications of British Engravings, is printed for Merchants and Print-Dealers, who are supplied on liberal terms.

INDIAN SPORTSMAN:

FORMING, ALSO,

A Splendid Natural History

OF THE
EAST INDIES;

Publishing in Numbers,

BY EDWARD ORME,
Antiquary, Engraver, and Publisher,
59, BOND-STREET, LONDON.

